

Title: Doctoral Studentship (PhD)

Application Closing Date: 5th July 2024

Location: Hartpury University, Gloucestershire.

Stipend: £19,237 per annum

Contract Type: Full Time (3 years)

Area of Research: Physical activity and wellbeing through drumming

Hartpury University is pleased to offer this exciting project examining physical activity and wellbeing using drumming as part of its continued work as part of the renowned Clem Burke Drumming Project. The Clem Burke Drumming Project was co-founded by Prof Steve Draper and is a collaborative project with the University of Chichester and King's College London. Recent research from this group has demonstrated the potential physical and mental wellbeing benefits of rock and pop drumming in a range of populations including autism spectrum disorder. The successful candidate will conduct a programme of research investigating drumming as a physical activity intervention across a range of groups and special populations. The programme of work will be varied and will range from large survey work to physical activity monitoring. The aim is to produce evidence-based guidance and to support tutors to maximise the physical and mental health benefits of drumming. This position would suit a driven individual, willing to travel for data collection, with a passion for exercise, physical activity and health. A passion and interest in drumming and music is desirable but not essential.

For more information or for an initial discussion, please contact: Prof. Steve Draper: Stephen.Draper@Hartpury.ac.uk
